About Hulhumale' City

Hulhumale is an artificial island located in the south of North Male Atoll. The island was restored to create more room to meet the existing and future housing, industrial and commercial development needs of the Male' region.

For many tourists this is an interesting destination as it provides an opportunity to be close to nature as well as see modern Maldivian architecture.

To visit Hulhumale from Male, it takes 20 minutes ferry from the Hulhumale Ferry Terminal. There's also a speedboat service (10 minutes) that leaves from the dock where the airport ferry departs. On the island there are several bus services that connect the ferry terminal to the rest of the island, but it is an easy 10-minute walk if there is not one waiting when you arrive.
