Meet on arrival and transfer to visit Doi Suthep Temple (include entrance fee, exclude tram fee). Phra That Doi Suthep is one of northern Thailand's most sacred temples, and its founding legend is learned by every schoolkid in Chiang Mai. The original founding of the temple remains a legend and there are a few varied versions. The temple is said to have been founded in 1383 when the first stupa was built. Over time, the temple has expanded, and been made to look more extravagant with many more holy shrines added. (overnight in Chiangmai)

DAY02 CHIANGMAI / LAMPHUN / LAMPANG / CHIANGRAI

Transfer to Lamphun, visit Wat Phra That Hariphunchai. The name of the Wat translates to "Temple of the Sacred Hariphunchai Relic". According to legend, the temple was founded in 1150 by a Hariphunchai King, to enshrine a Buddha relic found in the Palace garden. It was built on the spot where the Palace of the first ruler of the Hariphunchai Kingdom, Queen Chamadevi used to be. At the end of the 13th century, Hariphunchai was besieged by King Mengrai who brought Lamphun into the Lanna Kingdom. About mid 15th century, the temple was renovated and expanded with a number of Lanna style structures.

Then transfer to Lampang visit Thung-Kwian market. It is a popular fresh market among travelers as well local people around the area. Later on, go to visit Wat Phrathat Lampang Luang, the temple is one of the best examples of Lanna style architecture in Thailand. Its viharns that are open on all sides are typical of the early Lanna style. Whereas some temples have been restored using modern materials and modern building techniques, the Wat Phra That Lampang Luang has been preserved in its original state. The temple was founded in the 13th century. Its name translates to "the temple of Lampang's Great Buddha Relic". The architecture is a mix of Lanna and Thai Lü styles. Then go to Wat Chalerm Phra Kiat (This tour is not suitable for seniors or any people have disability to walk due to long walking distance). Wat Phra That Lampang Luang is one of the most highly revered temples in Thailand and it is also one of the best examples of Lanna style architecture in Thailand. Its viharns that are open on all sides are typical of the early Lanna style. Whereas some temples have been restored using modern materials and modern building techniques, the Wat Phra That Lampang Luang has been preserved in its original state. The temple was founded in the 13th century. Its name translates to "the temple of Lampang's Great Buddha Relic". The architecture is a mix of Lanna and Thai Lü styles. Wat Chalerm Phra Kiat was built to commemorate King Rama IV of Rattanakosin dynasty's 200th anniversary. Chaehom, where Wat Chalermprakit is located, is 74.6 km from Lampang or about 1 hr 18 mins by car. One must navigate an 800-meter climb through iron stairs some as steep as 35 degree angles or sharper to reach one or two pagodas perched on top of Pu Yak mountain that are currently open to the public. After that transfer to Chiangrai for overnight.

DAY03 CHIANGRAI

Proceed tour Elephant Camp at Chang Puak Camp (included Elephant shows, 15mins elephant riding, Long Neck & Crocodile shows) White Temple (include entrance fee) formally known as Wat Rong Khun. Wat Rong Khun is a unique temple that stands out through the white color and the use of pieces of glass in the plaster, sparkling in the sun. The white color signifies the purity of the Buddha, while the glass symbolizes the Buddha's wisdom and the Dhamma, the Buddhist teachings. The temple was designed by Chalermchai Kositpipat, a famous Thai visual artist. Then go to visit Singha Park (include tram) Or Boon Rawd Farm, it is owned by Boon Rawd Brewery, the company who produce Singha Beer. Large areas of the park are still a working farm with fruit orchards and tea plantations as well as some of the original barley fields. These days though, the barley is mainly used for malted drinks and health foods. The farm is now more famous for its production of oolong tea and tours of the park provide visitors with the chance to see how the tea is grown and carefully picked. The park has also been sympathetically landscaped with trails, lakes and meadows all combining to make this an attractive destination for all visitors in Chiang Rai. Next destination is Wat Huay Pla Kung, which is a Buddhist monumental 9-stories Chedi (Pagoda) style temple, known for its spiritual design and its ornamental details. Residing in the temple is outstanding crafted wooden statue of Guan-Imm Bhodisatva; with a soothing surrounding. (overnight in Chiangrai)

DAY04 CHIANGRAI / CHIANGMAI

Tour Mae Fah Luang Garden (include entrance fee) The Mae Fah Luang Garden is the most beautiful landscaped garden in Thailand filled with hundreds of different kinds of plants and flowers. A garden of mostly temperate flowers was built over 10 acres of land in accordance with the Princess Mother's wishes to give Thai people who have never travelled overseas an opportunity to enjoy a temperate flower garden. In the middle of this garden stands "Continuity", a magnificent sculpture created by the late artist Misiem Yip-In-Soi. The Princess Mother gave this name to the sculpture to draw attention to the fact that continuity ensures the success of any endeavour.

The colourful garden, enjoying a cool climate virtually all year round, consists of several lawns with various types of annual and perennial flowering plants. Some of them are dahlia, magnolia, petunia, azalea, salvia, rhododendron, gladiolus, aster, geranium, pansy, phlox, morning glory, lady's slipper orchid, etc. Besides the flower gardens, there are also an ornamental garden, a rock garden, a water garden, and a palm garden., Doi Mae Salong, it is also known as Mae Salong and officially called Santikhiri. Doi Mae Salong was once the community of Santi Khiri, the Chinese 93rd Divisions who escaped from the political tension in Burma in 1961. Today, Doi Mae Salong has become one of the main tourist attractions in Chiang Rai, offering the succulent native Chinese cuisine, lovely houses with flowers and many plantations from fruits to coffee and tea. Then transfer back Chiangmai (overnight in Chiangmai)
