Hiking Baru Volcano

Volcan Baru, a dormant volcano just south of the Continental Divide, is one of the only places in the world where one can see both the Pacific Ocean and the Caribbean Sea at the same time with the naked eye. Dozens of people attempt the climb daily, hoping to make summit before the gorgeous sunrise shines above the clouds, to then light up the beautiful mountain town of Boquete. Join us to make the steep and rugged climb by foot. You will make your way to the dormant volcano's summit, as you traverse through rolling green hills, lush jungle, and finally to rocky cliffs.

From the summit, you will get the breath-taking panoramic view of both of Panama's coastlines, the Pacific and the Caribbean for a "once-in-lifetime" opportunity to witness a volcano sunrise from the highest point in Panama. The hike is not for the faint-of-heart as it is an extremely challenging trail, often taking even the most experienced hikers 5 hours just to make the summit. Depending on your speed, you will wait at the top for the sunrise, amidst sometimes freezing temperatures and blistering cold wind gusts.
