In the morning you will be picked up from your hotel. First you will arrive at the pier where you will catch the boat to start the boat trip. The name Paraguay is a native word and means “extension of the sea”. The river Paraguay is the most important affluent of the river Paraná and for South American sizes a small river. Anyhow the river Paraguay is one of the most important routes for goods from the south of Brazil till Buenos Aires. With 4300 m³/s water flow, the river is nearly 60 times bigger as the river Thames in England. On our way through the north we will drop by many fish shops beside the river. There you have the possibility to see some of fishes the people are catching. The tour takes us back to the south where we drive to the Cerro Lambaré - the highest hill in the areas of Asunción. During our tour you will get a different view of Asunción and will have many possibilities to take beautiful pictures from the mother of the city. Back at the pier we will discover the history of the Paraguayan capital: from the Spanish colonization to the independency through the prosperity time of President Lopez and at least the modernity. Among other things you will visit the Casa de la Independencia, the cathedral Metropolitana and the heroes’ memorial – Panteón Nacional de los Héroes. During your tour you have time to try a Paraguayan specialty, the Empanadas. At the end you will experience a typical South American market – Mercado 4.
