TOUR ITINERARY

Day 1: DA NANG – ARRIVAL – HOI AN – STREET FOOD TOUR

(D)

You will be welcomed at Danang airport and transferred to your hotel in Hoi An for check in. (Check in time after 14:00pm).

At 15:00: You will start your street food tasting tour.

You will walk through the market and the streets of Hoi An to the corner of Hoang Van Thu and Tran Phu Streets to find a Banh Beo Lady, who wears a conical hat. For those who haven't yet ventured to the central coast of Vietnam, Banh Beo, is one of the classic dishes of Hoi An ancient town and Hue, the ancient imperial capital of Vietnam. Each small rice paste cake was steamed and presented in its own little ceramic bowl. It was then beautifully served, covered with an orange-colored, shrimp & pork-based sauce containing bits of fresh local river shrimp, fried shallots, and chopped chilies.

After your first taster, we head out to a local restaurant for more delicious dishes. You start with a one of a kind central-Vietnamese highlight Hen Xuc Banh Trang, which is a bowl full of tiny local river clams, sauteed with shallots, garlic, chili, mint and ginger and plus some secret ingredients. Served with a tasty fish sauce, and dipped with a crunchy Banh Da, a crispy grilled frisbee-sized rice cracker.

After finishing your crunchy cracker and river treats, it was time to enjoy Hoi An's most famous dish, Com Ga, or chicken rice, is not exclusive to Hoi An, but locals have successfully improved on it, making it one of their signature dishes. It is said that to make the famous Com Ga, Hoi An people carefully choose rice and chicken of top quality. A dish of chicken rice is mouth-watering with its pleasantly yellowed rice topped with hand-shredded chicken and herbs. It is served with a small bowl of soup containing some chicken giblets like heart and liver.

A food tour in Hoi An is never complete without sweet dessert soups known as Che in Vietnam. Che in the ancient town comes in small bowls that cost just a few cents at street stalls. Whether or not you have a sweet tooth, make sure to check out the local sweet corn soup or Che Bap, especially the one made with corn grown in Cam Nam Ward, considered among the country's best. Che Bap can be eaten hot, cold or with another sweet soup.

At 19:00: Finish your tour and you will have your free time.
