Fees Guide

A guide to Immigration New Zealand's fees and immigration levy

This guide provides information about the fees and immigration levy Immigration New Zealand (INZ) charges, who has to pay and how to pay.

If we decline your application or registration, we will not refund the fee and immigration levy (if applicable). The cost is the same whether or not we approve your application/registration.

What do you pay?

Fees

If you are in New Zealand when you make your application, you are required to pay the fee specified in Band A of the fees table on pages 8-10.

If you are outside New Zealand when you make your application, the fee you are required to pay depends on your country of citizenship. Citizens of Pacific countries specified below pay the fee in Band B. Citizens of all other countries pay the fee in Band C.

Pacific countries

The fees listed in Band B of the fees table on pages 8 to 10 apply to applications from citizens of Australia, American Samoa, Fiji, Kiribati, Marshall Islands, Federated States of Micronesia, Nauru, Palau, Papua New Guinea, Pitcairn Islands, Samoa, Solomon Islands, Tonga, Tuvalu, Vanuatu, and citizens of Cook Islands and Niue not travelling on a New Zealand passport.

Note: In the case of applications from citizens of French Polynesia, Guam, New Caledonia, and Norfolk Island, the fee band will differ for some application types. See the office and fees finder at www.immigration.govt.nz/fees for further information.

Example of an application lodged inside New Zealand

If you are in New Zealand at the time you lodge your application, you are required to pay the fee specified in Band A of the fees table on pages 8-10.

Example 1 A citizen of the United States of America physically present in New Zealand applying for a residence class visa under the Skilled Migrant Category pays NZ$1,890. Because the applicant is in New Zealand, they pay the fee in column A.

Example of an application lodged outside New Zealand

If you are outside New Zealand when you lodge your application, the fee you pay normally depends on your country of citizenship.

Example 2 A Fijian citizen living in China applying for a residence class visa under the Skilled Migrant Category. The applicant applies to the office in Beijing, but the applicant holds Fijian citizenship so pays a fee equivalent to NZ$1,620 (Band B, Pacific/Australia).

Example 3 A British citizen living in Australia applying for a residence class visa under the Skilled Migrant Category. The applicant applies to the office in Sydney, but the applicant holds British citizenship so pays a fee equivalent to NZ$2,505 (Band C/Rest of the world).

Example 4 An Indian citizen living in London applying for a residence class visa under the Skilled Migrant Category. The applicant applies to the London office, but the applicant holds Indian citizenship so pays a fee equivalent to NZ$2,505 (Band C/Rest of the world).

The fee payable at each office may differ slightly because of exchange rates.

Dual citizenship

If you have dual citizenship you must pay the fee applicable to the passport in which the visa is to be granted.

Immigration Levy

The purpose of the immigration levy is to fund:

- the provision of programmes intended to assist the successful settlement of migrants, and
- the carrying out of research into settlement issues and the impacts of immigration, and

- the infrastructure required for, and the operation of, the immigration system, including (without limitation) for the following purposes:
 - establishing and verifying the identity of persons,
 - managing risk to the integrity of the immigration system,
 - managing immigration risk to the safety and security of New Zealand,
 - managing compliance with the immigration system, and
- activities aimed at attracting migrants to New Zealand, and
- the Immigration Advisers Authority to the extent that it is not otherwise funded.

An immigration levy is payable on certain visa applications, unless you are exempt. The levy is charged per application, unless the application is for a group visitor visa, in which case the levy is charged per person. The immigration levy is an additional cost and you need to pay the immigration levy with your application fee when you lodge your visa application.

People exempt from the immigration levy

You are exempt from paying the immigration levy if you

- are a citizen of Samoa applying for a resident visa,
- are a claimant for refugee or protection status and applying for a visa,
- are applying for a resident visa as a refugee or protected person,
- are applying for a resident visa on the basis of your relationship with a refugee or protected person,
- are applying for a visa under the Special Category for Victims of Domestic Violence,
- are applying for a visa under the Special Category for Victims of People Trafficking.

How do you pay your fee and immigration levy?

How you pay your fee and immigration levy depends on which country you are lodging your application in. Paying by the recommended method of payment helps us process your application faster.

Applicants who are in New Zealand

You must pay your fee and immigration levy in New Zealand dollars. We prefer you pay by:

- credit card (Visa or MasterCard)
- EFTPOS (if you are paying over the counter)
- bank cheque/bank draft.

Cash is not accepted as a form of payment in New Zealand offices.

Applicants who are overseas

We do not accept cash in most offshore offices. Different countries have different banking systems, so payment methods are different in our overseas offices.

Check www.immigration.govt.nz/fees or contact your nearest INZ office to find out which methods of payment, and which currencies, they accept.

Paying for an Expression of Interest

Skilled Migrant Category

You can lodge an Expression of Interest (EOI) under the Skilled Migrant Category online or on a paper form. If you lodge your EOI online, it costs less. You can pay by credit card or bank draft.

If you lodge your EOI on a paper form from outside New Zealand, you can pay by credit card, bank draft or bank cheque in New Zealand dollars, or by bank draft in United States dollars.

Investor (Investor 2 Category)

If you are lodging an EOI under the Investor 2 Category you can pay by credit card, bank draft or bank cheque in New Zealand dollars.

Fees and immigration levy may change

The fee and immigration levy payable at each office may differ because of exchange rates. Contact your nearest office for the fee and immigration levy (if applicable) in local currency.

The information contained in this leaflet is, to the best of our knowledge, current at the time of printing. Fees and the immigration levy may be reviewed at various times.

Fee-waiver countries

The New Zealand Government has bilateral fee-waiver agreements with certain countries. Citizens of those countries do not have to pay fees and the immigration levy (if applicable) for certain application types, as listed in the following table.

Fee waivers do not apply to the fee for replacing/transferring a visa label or stamp in a new passport.

Work – Partnership visa fees

The work visa fees for 'Work – Partnership' on page 8 are for applications from partners of New Zealand citizens or residents. If you are applying on the basis of partnership with a non-New Zealand citizen or resident, for example a work visa holder, the 'Work – Other' fee will apply.

Do all family members have to pay?

You only have to pay one application fee and immigration levy for all of the people included in your application, except if applying for a group visitor visa or group transit visa. You can include your partner and/or dependent children in your application if you are applying for a:

- residence class visa
- variation of travel conditions on a resident visa
- visitor visa*
- limited visa to visit New Zealand
- transit visa*.

'Partner' means the spouse, civil union partner or de facto partner of the applicant where the couple have been living together for 12 months or more. This may include same-sex couples. See below for definitions of dependent children.

For all other application types, partners and children must make their own application for a visa and pay the required fee and immigration levy.

Dependent children – residence class visa applications

You can include your/your partner's dependent children in your residence application if they are:

- aged 17 or under and single, or
- aged between 18 and 20 years, single, and have no children of their own, or
- aged 21 – 24, single with no children of their own and totally or substantially reliant on you or your partner for financial support.

Children aged 24 and under who are not dependent and children aged 25 or over must make their own application and pay the required fee and immigration levy.

Dependent children – visitor*/transit/limited

You can include your/your partner's children in your application if they are 19 years of age or younger, unmarried and dependent. Children aged 19 and younger who are not dependent and children aged 20 or over must make their own application and pay the required fee and immigration levy.

* For group visitor visas each applicant must pay a fee and immigration levy.

* For group transit visa each applicant must pay a fee.
